CYS10: Create large master key systems with an extra layer of security

Experience a safer and more open world

Open doors. But not to everyone

Of course, your building must be welcoming for visitors and employees. At the same time, it should remain protected against unauthorized access. The right building security ensures you meet this and many other challenges.

Protecting specific premises and areas

You ensure authorized access with a security locking system that keeps shared spaces accessible and sensitive assets safe.

Convenient access for authorized personnel

How many doors do your cleaning teams open on a daily basis? Authorized people should enter easily without carrying huge key bunches.

Locking points beyond doors

Security does not end with a locked door. Whether at cabinets, letterboxes or lockers, a building needs security for all its sensitive spots.

Trusted security without compromises

The CYS10 locking system is manufactured by ASSA ABLOY – the global leader in access solutions. Our technologies secure premises of all types across the world.

Hands-on access management with the CYS10 Master Key System

Specific keys for designated areas help you regulate access into and around your building

Access all areas? In commercial premises, people come and go all day. A master key system helps you stay in control of security.

Your key to security locking systems

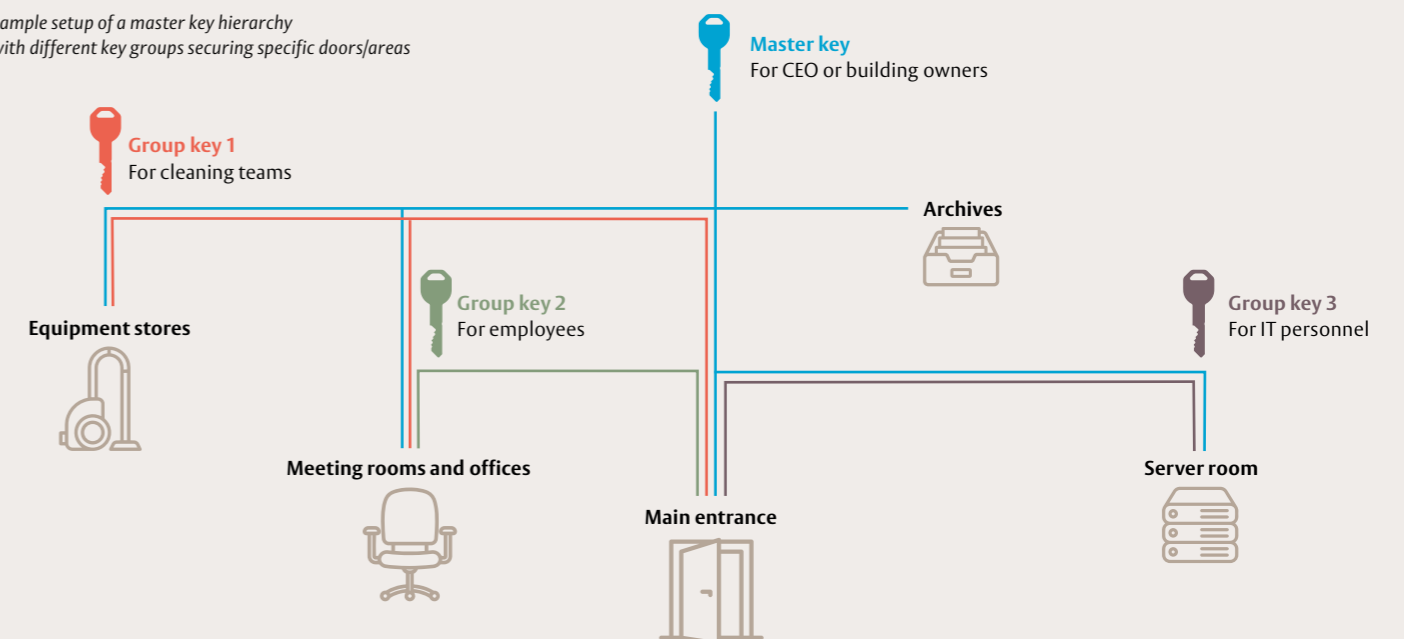

A CYS10 Master Key System helps you tailor secure, individualized access to rooms, groups or areas. Nobody needs to carry large, inconvenient key bunches, and no one has access to rooms beyond their specific authority. CYS10 is the modern and affordable master key solution.

Benefits at a glance

- Tailored access: CYS10 lets the right people in and keeps everyone else out
- A solution for every locking point: CYS10 can secure more than doors
- Extra safety: CYS10 comes with double patent protection and other proven security features
- Added functionality: a choice of optional features makes CYS10 ideal for many applications
